If you already have a ResearcherID in Web of Science or other systems, you will be able to export your information and publications into the ORCID:

To import data from another system, log in to your ORCID record and then click ‘Link Works’:

Note: You can choose the privacy level you would like your works to be assigned (public, limited or private) under ‘Account Settings’.

For more information click ‘ORCID Privacy Settings’ or ‘Privacy Policy’.

Choose the needed system from the list:

LINK WORKS

ORCID has been working with many member organizations to make it easy to connect your ORCID iD, and link information from their records. Choose one of the links wizards to get started.

Australian National Data Service (ANDS) Registry

Import your research datasets into ORCID from Australian National Data Service (ANDS) and Research Data Australia (RDA). ANDS is partnering with Australian research institutions and data producing agencies to improve discovery and reusability of research data across many research domains from earth science to technology and engineering.

ResearcherID

ResearcherID is a global, multi-disciplinary scholarly research community where members can register for unique identifier, build a profile of their scholarly works, view citation metrics, and search for like-minded researchers.

Scopus to ORCID

Import your Identifier, profile and publications. The wizard helps you find the correct Scopus profile and to confirm your publications. You can then import the identifier and list of publications into ORCID. Any changes you make will be submitted to the Feedback team to update your Scopus profile.
To allow ORCID to connect your record click 'Authorize':

Sigh in to your Researcher ID:

After you login, you will be able to update your profile information (registered members only).

Note: ResearcherID, Web of Science™, and EndNote® (all offerings from Thomson Reuters) share login credentials. More information.
Select data would you like to exchange between ResearcherID and ORCID and click ‘Go’:
